BCIT - Intermediate Web Design & Development

tumblr-TeamOne

blog articles from comp 1950 students

blog articles from comp 1950 students

blog articles from comp 1950 students

comp1950 - link to protosite

....

....

....

generic blog reference link

comp 1950 > introduction

Introductions: Who Are You?
Pair up with your neighbour and find out from them:
· Name
· Occupation
· Web Development Experience
· Why COMP 1950?
· What do you want to get out of the course?
· Little-known trivia
After 5 minutes, you will introduce your classmate.

web space
Each student will get personal webspace. This may be different than in the past, as this space is exclusively yours, with your own username and password.
This is also not a continuation of your COMP1850 site (if you had one). This site is primarily for you to house your exercises, assignments, group work and more. Make it a site that is usable and functional.
TheNet Setup
· You will create your account in the system one by one · Be prepared to enter your:
o directory name
o username
o password
· TIP: Use your BCIT ID and Password (used for logging into lab computers) to make it easier

Top of Page / Home

Blog
Lectures
    01 introduction
        About the course
        Introductions
        Web Space & F'
        Expectations
        Assignment
    02 tools & standards
    03 HTML5 & SEO
    04 CSS Concepts
        Review HTML5 /
        Markup Quiz
        CSS Concepts
        Exercises
        Specificity
        Measurements
        Homework

Lectures are set-up with accordion menus. Sub-titles will appear after user click on the main lecture title. (as shown)

CSS & HTML5 validators